Canada Year Book 1944

The publication is announced by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics of the 1944 edition of the Official Handbook "Canada".

Canada 1944 covers the present situation in the Dominion from Atlantic to Pacific, the weight of emphasis being placed on those aspects that are currently of most importance. So far as space permits, all phases of the country's economic organization are dealt with and statistics are brought up to the latest possible date. The text is accompanied by a wealth of illustrative matter that adds to the interest of the subjects treated.

The Introduction reviews Canada's war program, covering the growth and activities of her Armed Forces, the financial steps that have been taken, and the governmental organizations that have been created with their principal activities.

A special article describes the extent of the country's forest resources, the present rate of depletion and how our forest products have aided the cause of the United Nations.

All sections of the Handbook are well illustrated by up-to-date half tone reproductions.

The price of the publication is 25 cents per copy, which charge covers merely the cost of paper and actual press work. The special price concession granted, in the past, to teachers, bona fide students and ministers of religion has been discontinued.

Application for copies should be made to the KING'S PRINTER, OTTAWA, and NOT to the Dominion Statistician.

Applications must be accompanied by a postal note or by a coin enclosed between two squares of thin cardboard gummed together at the edges.

Briaault Family Receive Condolences

The following has been received by the family of the late Pte. Briaault of Fabry:— Loyal Edmonton Regt.
Canadian Army Overseas
C.M.F.

January 4th, 1944.

Dear Mrs. Briaault:—
It is with deep regret that I confirm the news of the death of your son, Pte. E. B. Briaault No. 1931689 who was killed in action on 23rd, Dec. 1943.

He advanced with his Company into a narrow valley only to find the Germans all around them, some men were wounded and he stopped to attend them; but another burst of machine gun fire got him. The Company had to withdraw and he was left; it was not until eight days later that they were able to get his body out in spite of several tries. We cleared the ground of Germans and then brought him out, we felt it wise to bury him at once and as Chaplain to the Unit I read the Service and later the R. C. Chaplain came to complete it, all this took place under constant fire during a big battle.

The Officers and Men of the Loyal Edmonton Regt. send their sincere sympathy and pray that God will strengthen and comfort you in the day of your sorrow, he was a good lad and we miss him in the regiment.

He gave his life for others and for the coming of peace to a war-weary world. God Bless You.
EDGAR J. BAILEY, Chaplain.

Refuse Reduction In Gasoline Price

There will be no reduction in the price of gasoline, though the octane rating of No. 1 grade motor gasoline has been cut, according to information received by the Alberta Motor Association.

Also, it has been stated that the price of motor gasoline in Canada is below what it would be on an economic basis and that in some parts of the country there have been times when it would have been 14 cents per gallon higher, but for the price ceiling.

The recent cut in octane rating was said to have been necessitated by increased war requirements of aviation gasoline.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Woodward spent a few days in Edmonton last week.

Wainwright Ace Blasts German Ship

When aircraft of the coastal command make a "strike" on enemy shipping the action is fast and furious as anything from one to 30 aircraft fire hundreds of rounds of cannon shells and drop dozens of bombs in less than a minute. To get the story of one such action The Canadian Press went to a participant, F/O James Keefe of Wainwright, who was in the R.C.A.F. Buffalo squadron when a formation of Beaufighters attacked a German convoy off the Norwegian coast. This is his account:—
By F/O James Keefe.

WITH THE R.C.A.F. BUFFALO SQUADRON, Somewhere in Britain Feb. 11—At morning take-off recently we knew there was a chance of a big "do" and we were pretty keen.

It took about two hours from our base to the spot where the German convoy was supposed to be.

The only other thing I worried about on the way over was whether the Huns would have any single engine fighters around. When we were loaded up with bombs it isn't much fun bumping into a Nazi fighter who can outmanoeuvre you.

We made our landfall on the Norge coast, "bang on" and then turned up coast to where our target should be.

We began to run into heavy flak from shore batteries and I started to weave. The flak was getting very accurate just as we sighted the target ahead of us, but it broke off when we went into our dives to attack. The shore guns had to stop then or they would have been hitting their own ships because we were striking from a very low level.

I saw three large merchant vessels down below as well as some escort vessels that I didn't have time to count. I opened up with my cannon on the biggest of the cargo ships and hit it square on the decks with almost the first shell.

I kept on firing as I dove in and I think I must have played hell with their gun crews. Anyway, I didn't have any flak coming up from the ship after I'd put in that first burst and I was able to get right in to drop four bombs that were direct hits.

I didn't see what happened after they landed. I was gone by then. But one of our other pilots said they wiped the superstructure completely away.

As I turned to sea I glanced at my sights and there was a German escort vessel dead in front of me and not more than 700 yards away. I pressed the buttons and gave him a burst of cannon fire. Then I came home. Edmonton Bulletin.

Presentation To Mr. & Mrs. F. Watts

A big crowd of friends and neighbors gathered in the Sydenham School on Friday Feb. 11th as a farewell party for Mr. and Mrs. Fred Watts, who following their auction sale of the farm are moving to reside in town.

The evening was spent in contests, community singing and a short program by school pupils.

A nice lunch was served those present during which time, on behalf of the community, Mr. Jack Veitch presented the guests of honor with a floor lamp and a pair of floor rugs, and extended all good wishes for them in their new home.

Mrs. Watts very fittingly thanked the friends on behalf of herself and her husband (who was unfortunately absent through illness, and the evening closed with "They are Jolly Good Fellows."

"C for Yourself" Troupe Entertains Boys

Winnipeg, January - On their way to entertain Royal Air Force men at Western Canada bases of the British Commonwealth Air Training Plans, a group of musical comedy and light opera stars flew to Winnipeg from New York by Trans-Canada Air Lines. There were five of them - Norma Terris, who starred in "Show Boat" and played the title role in "Little Nellie Kelly"; Rowan Tudor, baritone; the dancers Marguerite Jackinoff and Leonora Brunner, and the pianist and conductor, Theodore Walstrum, who has appeared with Nelson Eddy, Helen Jepson, Rose Bampton and other leading singers. They were joined at Estevan, Sask., by Claude Horton, who has been supporting Constance Bennett in the Theatre Guild production of "Without Love", and Jean Cameron, star of "Marigold". The party is sponsored by the American branch of ENSA, the Entertainment National at Services Association, Inc., Theatre Royal, Drury Lane. "C for Yourself" is the third show ENSA has brought to Canada. The others were "A for Aces" and "B for Bertie". Robert Fenemore, manager of all three shows, is travelling with the troupe.

The members of Council present at this meeting were Mayor Middlemass, Councillors Robinson, Cork, Lissimore and Torg.

A letter embodying an offer to purchase Lot 11, Block 16, Plan 6445-V, received from Mr. Omér Croteau was presented to Council and, on motion of Councillor Lissimore, it was resolved that this be ordered tabled until the next meeting of Council.

Trans-Can. Air Lines Opens New Type Office

Montreal, January - Increasing wartime traffic has compelled Trans-Canada Air Lines to provide larger office space in Montreal and the premises, now in operation have inaugurated a trend in Canadian transportation. Described as the most up-to-date airline traffic office in Canada, all space, both public and service, is strikingly decorated in the modern idiom associated with the air lines. Prevailing colors are grey, grey-blue, dark-blue and terra cotta. A striking feature is a large mural covering the entire wall behind the counter, executed in carved linoleum and painted to dramatize the route of Trans-Canada Air Lines across the Dominion, with a suggestion of future trans-oceanic routes. The present route is shown in textured glass of brilliant scarlet with stopping points indicated by projecting discs in contrasting blue and white.

No More Old Tin Tubes for New

Ottawa—It is no longer necessary to turn in a used tin tube when purchasing shaving cream or toothpaste. The Wartime Prices and Trade Board has revoked the order, since the percentage of tin now being put into new tubes is so low that continuance of the practise is unjustified.

When tubes were made of a high percentage of tin, salvage from 400,000 pounds of used tubes resulted in 90,000 pounds of pure tin.

Mrs. E. Loudfoot was here over the week end visiting friends in town.

On motion of Councillor Torg, it was resolved that By-Law, No. 354, receive First Reading. By-Law number 354 was then read for the first time.

On motion of Councillor Cork, that By-Law, No. 354, receive its Second Reading. By-Law number 354, received its second reading.

On motion Council was then adjourned.

Choir Concert At Wain United Church

A near-capacity crowd was in attendance at the United church last Wednesday evening, when the ladies of the senior choir presented a two-hour programme by local artists and the junior choir; every number of which was greatly enjoyed by an attentive audience.

The programme opened with the singing of a well-known hymn, followed by a double vocal selection by the junior choir.

These, along with the closing numbers by the juniors, were excellently rendered, reflecting credit not only on themselves but also to the leadership of Mrs. H. T. Coult, L.R.S.M.

This accomplished lady in addition to accompanying the choir, soloists, and violin soloists, contributed piano selections which were artistically interpreted in a manner highly pleasing to her audience.

Soprano solos by Mrs. A. T. Gray and Mrs. L. W. Smith were effectively and pleasingly rendered and met with the full approval of the listeners.

Two well-chosen readings by Mrs. A. D. Richard and Mrs. H. C. Wallace were dramatically given and added a pleasing variety to the programme.

Appreciative listeners were given an opportunity to hear Mr. Joseph Zazinsky in two violin solos as well as in violin duets with Alec Adams; Mr. Adams also contributed splendid violin solos. These artists are both prime favorites with Wainwright audiences. Mrs. J. Telford accompanied most acceptably at the piano.

Concerts of this class are becoming all too rare in town, and numerous words of appreciation have been expressed with the hope of having them more frequently.

Board Safeguards Standard Quality

Ottawa—Hidden price increases through degradation of quality in women's misses, men's and children's wear are curbed through a new Wartime Prices and Trade Board order requiring manufacturers to label their goods with the WPTB license number, and style number. This will enable the Board's inspectors to trace garments to their source and investigate complaints of degradation. The order is effective on March 1st.

Surprise Farewell Party

On Sunday last a number of young friends of Miss Marguerite Bruner met at her home to surprise her on the eve of her departure for Toronto, where she will attend Radio College. She will start her course on her 21st birthday.

Covers were laid for ten, and a turkey dinner served which all enjoyed.

Best wishes were extended for success in her new venture, and a safe and pleasant journey east.

Having received an honorable discharge (from the local hospital) the Editor is again at the office "just bumm'n" around and getting in the road, after a long fight with the flu. Feeling much better thanks. Thanks for all the kindly attention and enquiries folks; they are sure appreciated.

Mr. J. Bain is here from Mos-sleigh, Alta., to visit for a short stay with his sister Mrs. F. Watts.

The Power Of Your Home Paper

The power of the Weekly newspaper was amply demonstrated a few days ago when the Minister of Finance presented his budget to Parliament. Included in this budget was an appropriation of $325,000 for expanded study by the National Research Council into industrial utilization of farm crops.

Chemurgy—the research into conversion of surplus farm crops to industrial uses—was practically unknown in Canada prior to 1938.
In that year Cecil Lamont, representing the Line Elevator Companies, visited the principal research centres of the United States. His report convinced the Line Elevator Companies that a great field for expanded industrial uses for surplus farm products was possible
through scientific research.

The Line Elevators then pioneered a campaign for establishment of a Western division of the National Research Council dedicated to finding new industrial and edible uses for farm products. The weekly newspapers were solidly behind the advocacy of this plan designed to bring greater prosperity to agriculture. Their judgement has been vindicated. Today we find millions of bushels of wheat and other grains being used for industrial purposes. The reduction in the burdensome wheat surplus has strengthened the Canadian wheat price from 70 cents per bushel to $1.25, plus what the participation certificates will finally bring the farmer. The manner in which the weekly press has advocated what was merely an idea in 1938 has resulted in all political parties and farmers' organizations solidly supporting chemurgy. The Government is now making a substantial amount available to expand research into industrial uses for farm crops and has plans for the creation of Western laboratories of the National Research Council after the war. The power and influence of the weekly newspaper for good works is indeed great.

TIME BOMBS

Freedom to say what we think is important, but the courage to do what we say is even more so.

In tolerating many things we take no stand for anything.

A home that isn't fighting for something beyond itself will become simply sweet or decidedly sour.

"In the army they can't make you do anything," writes a rookie,
"but they can make you wish you had."

We can win the war by bettering
our enemy. But we can only win
the peace by bettering ourselves.

Bad men abroad are in part responsible for the mess we're in. The other parts are bad morals and bad thinking here at home.

End is Getting Near For 'Alerts' & 'All Clears'

READING, ENGLAND—Last night
I looked at my calendar and suddenly realized that, somewhere or other, I had lost quite a lot of days. I always regard this letter of ours as one of the things which just must be done before the month is out; and this time I have managed to catch the month by the tail—
and here we are.

So here is winter again—says
the fog. Never have I known such fog in October. Today there is a high grey wall of it just beyond the big gates; all my lovely view has been swallowed up, and everything is dank and cold. All the anti-blast stuff painted on the window-glass, too, keeps out the light, so one must be either cold or pur-blind. Just another of those wartime things.

Evening work on the allotment has come to an end. Needs must.
I have given up the idea, at last,
after several hardy experiments at peering dimly among the spinach-bed and then blundering home-wards on a bicycle. Poor little Musty Grace and I simply can't contend with those pitch-black pedestrians (presumably with blackened faces and hands) who spring up out of the earth in our country lanes. The radio's frequent exhortations to "wear or carry something white" haven't registered, evidently.
Grace has been so upset by it all that her bell broke and her rear-lamp gave out again. I am afraid
Grace has a temperament.

I was so grateful to the friends who mended her that I said rather rashly: "Now, is there anything
I can do for you?"

A Talk To Mothers

With suspicious sharpness they answered: "Yes. You can give a talk at the Mothers' Union." A highly improbable thing to ask of me, but it duly happened. A goodly assembly of mothers gathered in the Parish Room—probably warned that almost anything might occur.

Frankly, I don't know a thing about the M.U., and I don't know what sort of talk they expected.
But did I fancy that a little wave of relief passed over the assembly
when, at the start, I warned them
that it wasn't going to be particularly serious? It wasn't, though I had my moments. I gave them half an hour of "My Trip to the States,"
and I think we enjoyed ourselves.
After all, people in a tiny place
like this don't know a great deal about their Allies, and the more one can humanize them the better it is, in my opinion. I don't pretend to be a living authority on the strength of a month's holiday there, but at least I could speak of the friendliness and kindness I'd found and the amusing things that happened. And I wasn't nervous. I didn't even say "Unaccustomed as I am to public speaking." That much, no doubt was self evident.

A Busy Few Days

So, one way and another, it is small wonder that a few days have gone astray. There is a lot doing here too, in this house. The only son is home on leave, and everybody is washing mangling, sewing and packing like mad. You know how it is, I expect. When he goes a great quiet will settle on the place: too deep a quiet, perhaps.
We don't know where he is going,
though my own guess, most likely,
is as good as the next person's.
And now—after some frantic telephone calls last night—I have all my friends turning out their family rag bags in a hunt for some khaki flannel. I have undertaken to patch the batman's shirts, and if you have ever tried to lay hands on a piece of khaki flannel you will know what a stir I have created.
If all else fails my friend the doctor's wife is going to invade the W.V.S. and see if they can produce some.

New Plowing Machine

But to return to the allotment.
The Gardening Partner having been informed that there must be no more digging or rough work for him, has bent the great brain on the problem, and last Saturday afternoon I looked up to see him coming down the path trundling a remarkable contraption which he has designed to do the ploughing for us. The famous watering apparatus—you remember—was extraordinary enough, in all conscience, but this has it beaten to a frazzle. There was one other worker on the patch and, though he was a stranger to us, he came galloping over, having stared incredulously for a minute or two. And I don't wonder at it.

The new contrivance is constructed almost exclusively of odds
and ends from the local dump, helped out by chunks of firewood and bits of this and that which I have picked up from time to time,
on the principle of "You never know." For ballast it has a sand-bag which sits snugly between the various projections of old bicycle fittings, wooden stakes, portions of old railings and what-have-you.
The shoe—which really turns the soil most successfully—has been laboriously hammered out of a thick sheet of iron I found in a hedge last spring, and the whole thing runs on a pair of perambulator-wheels. The general idea, I gather, is that I shall be harnessed in front while the G.P. shoves behind; and when I have got over my natural inclination of collapse with laughter—I dare say it will be a huge success.

After a few readjustments have been made I am going to paint its name on the finished article, which shall be called Robin: short for 'Robinson.' 'Heath Robinson,' over here is our generic name for anything which is made from a fantastic collection of oddments. I have never seen a more striking example. What some of our farmers would think of it I don't know, but you certainly must hand it to the G.P. for a bright notion. Anyway, deep ploughing, on the allotment would be impossible, and we have found that even deep digging isn't the best thing. So when we do our cart-horse-and-Shetland
pony act we'll be on the right lines.
Just at first, I'm sure, we shall hold up all other activities. Nobody in these days of amusement tax would care to miss a first class free show like that.

(Talking of notions, I have just been looking through one of your summertime newspapers, and I see that there has been quite a lot about ants and how to keep them from the food. Well, please forgive me for being all out of season,
but have you heard of this wheeze?
I got it years ago, from a man who spent a long while in Africa, where ants are almost a plague. In his house, he says, they used to place the food on a table, at night, and stand the table-legs in saucers of water. No ant ever got past those saucers.)

MAKE YOUR LINENS LAST

Linens and their sister fabrics, cottons and rayons which are often used in weaving household linens
these days, need care. Making them last is one of the busy homemaker's many war jobs. The more linens saved, the fewer will have to be made, and the more men, machines and materials will be released for vital war work.

Here are some suggestions from Vera Richards Macdonald, of the Women's Branch, Extension Service, Alberta Department of Agriculture:

1. Stop practices that tend to wear linens out, e.g., absentmindedly marking the table cloth with a knife or fork which weakens the fibre so that a break will occur
when laundering. Creases, too, should be avoided. Tablecloths, napkins and sheets generally wear out where creases have been ironed into them. Simply fold after ironing, and where a centre crease is necessary, change the fold with each ironing and make the others
by hand. Don't iron turkish towels;
they will not absorb moisture as well—just shake these when hanging to dry and again when folding to make soft and fluffy.

2. Wash Carefully—avoid strenuous rubbing and washing soda or strong bleaches in very hot water.
Keep them white by hanging to dry in the sun. If you must use sach, use it sparingly as linen fibres may crack if starched too stiffly, or if allowed to freeze while drying.

Stains should be removed before allowed to "set". Cold water will remove most of them while hot water may set them.

3. Repair small holes and frayed edges before laundering.

4. If stored away for some time, linens keep best where it is cool,
dry and dark. Wrap in tissue paper or old sheeting. Dark blue paper is good for storing white linens.

5. Pile linens in use so that freshly laundered ones are at the bottom of the pile—they will all wear equally and have a chance to make a come-back after using.

6. Buy only what you need to fill the place of things worn out.

BROODING AND CARE OF BABY CHICKS

The poultry farmer is usually faced with the prospect of replacing half, if not more of his flock each year, because the profitable laying life of the domestic hen is short.

To provide for this replacement large numbers of baby chicks are hatched each year but far too many never reach a profitable age, states W. T. Scott, Dominion Experimental Station, Harrow, Ontario.

With the rapid expansion that has taken place in the industry in recent years there has been an increasing mortality that seems to be out of normal proportion. Too often this loss is the consequence of conditions that can be avoided.

In their own interests, reputable hatcheries have exercised considerable effort to safeguard their customers, but no matter how vigorous and healthy the newly hatched chick may be, if it is stunted and weakened by errors in feeding or brooding in the early days of its existence it will be a losing proposition in the end.

In suitable environment with modern, reliable equipment and scientifically prepared "starter" feeds the rearing of healthy strong chickens is a simple process. But if the more essential requirements are disregarded and makeshift appliances and feeds of doubtful value are used in an effort to cut down cost, the risk of failure is increased.

A good, weather-proof building that provides for plenty of sunlight and fresh air and a reliable heating unit supplied with the best fuel that can be obtained insures the comfort of the baby chick with a minimum of attention and labour for the operator. Once chilled the chick may never recover sufficiently to be profitable. Deaths constitute a loss more serious than generally recognized, as late replacement will never equal the earlier hatched chick.

There is no economy in feeding cheap and inferior rations. Until it gets out on range the chick depends entirely on the feed that is provided in the brooder so that it is essential that the feed consist of all the elements necessary to promote more growth and energy. In a brooding program that includes good chicks from a reliable source, dependable equipment, sanitary surroundings, fresh water and plenty of suitable feed, for no chick dies of overeating. Nature will take care of the rest.

AVOID STINKWEED FLAVORED MILK AND CREAM

One of the most disagreeable flavours found on milk or cream is stinkweed, which is becoming more and more common in Alberta. Dairy cows will consume this weed either in the form of young plants or seeds found among the screenings from the threshing separator.

Stinkweed flavour is so persistent says D. H. McCallum, Dairy Commissioner, that one can of milk or cream tainted with this weed can ruin a whole vat of cheese or churning of butter.

Milk found to contain this flavour must be returned from the milk plant or cheese factory, while cream is discounted ten to fifteen cents per pound butterfat.

Dairy producers can increase their revenue, and at the same time help Canada's war effort by adopting the following methods designed to eliminate stinkweed flavour:

1. Wherever possible, keep all milk cows off pastures and fields infested with stinkweed.
2. Remove or burn all screenings from around threshing machine settings before allowing milk cows to pasture in such fields.
3. Remove cows from stinkweed infested fields at least three or four hours before milking. The longer the interval, the less possibility of tainted milk.
4. Milk each cow into an empty pail, and determine by taste and smell which cows are producing tainted milk; this milk can be separated by itself or used for feeding live stock on the farm.
5. Carefully check and test the flavour of cream from each individual separation before adding to the shipping can. Mark off the tainted cream separately.

Just take my case for instance. Down here on the east coast things are mighty different from at home and you can take my word for it that I'm right homesick for the home-folks and the foothill country.

Here we are a couple of thousand miles from home and there isn't a thing like it back there in Alberta. Instead of those crisp, clear mornings you wake up to see fog and, pul, when there is a fog here you don't see anything else but. Then, too, a herd of Herefords in this neck of the woods would likely cause a stampede—not of the cattle but of the citizens. The folks here are nice enough but they don't even run on the same range as the neighbors close to the home spread. They were real folks.

Right here in camp you can tell the fellows who are receiving mail regularly because they look so different from the boys who haven't had a line from the folks at home.

A little letter from the wife or girl friend saying she's thinking of you peps a fellow up a lot. Then, too, letters from the boys who couldn't make the grade with the army does and are still back home are mighty welcome.

In fact any kind of a letter at all is really something and I guess when we get over to the other side it will be even more so.

One of the boys here hasn't had any mail at all and when nearly everyone else in the hut got letters the other day he said something which set me to thinking.

All the fellows with letters were talking and telling others about things at home but this chap was sort of left out of it all because he had no one back there writing to him.

Finally he grins and says, "You know, I made one mistake back home and that was paying my bills. If I'd left a few accounts back there I'd get letters too—even if they were only dunnies."

He smiled okay but the rest of us knew just how he felt and we were mighty sorry for him. That's why I sort of hope that all the folks back home will remember about those letters and keep 'em rolling.

But that's enough about letters for awhile. We're all hoping that mighty soon we'll be writing them from the other side but we still don't know when we're leaving.

Right now we're not working too hard and we're eating well and sleeping sound. All that word from Italy though has the boys hoping that it won't be long 'til we get going and that we won't stop 'til we're looking at those Roman temples and stuff we read about in our history books.

Now, though, there's nothing we can do but wait even if we are all itching to march up the gangplank of a transport and be on our way.

A BARGAIN IN BREAD
Supposing you went to the grocer's tomorrow and saw a sign over the bread display that read—

SPECIAL TODAY
Extra Vitamin B1 Calcium and Iron
FREE with each loaf!

Could you resist a bargain like that? Yet that very bargain is offered, though not advertised, every day in every store where whole grain bread is sold along side white. The same bargain can be picked up among the cereals too, for whole grain cereals provide those same extra food elements.

Adult daily requirement of Thiamin or Vitamin B1 is placed at a minimum of 500 International Units. Generous use of real whole wheat bread helps secure this essential, as it is the richest bread source of B1. A single slice of it yields 30 I.U. while a slice of refined white bread yields only one sixth the vitamin potency—5 I.U. Canadian diet low in calcium content—yet in respect to calcium, the use of whole wheat bread can step up the family's supply of this important mineral by 6%, which may make the difference between an adequate daily supply and a diet below par in this respect.

Moreover, whole wheat bread has more nicotinic acid and iron than has white bread or enriched bread.

Don't forget what a great deal more you get for your money when you buy whole wheat bread!

Hints for the Household

HOT OFF THE GRIDDLE

Do you have an adult or a child in your home who doesn't show much interest in breakfast? If so, that should be remedied in a hurry because we all need a good breakfast, especially in these strenuous war times.

Here's an easy solution to your problem. Feature a brand new dish at breakfast. It's sure to ring a bell with any "hard-to-please" member of your family. It's another way to get some of that 25% more cereal that Uncle Sam has asked us to get into our meals. You'll like these Flakes Griddle Cakes for luncheon or supper too.

Flakes Griddle Cakes

- 1 cup sifted flour
- 2 1/2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- 1 egg, well beaten
- 1 1/4 cups milk
- 1-1 1/2 cup corn flakes, or 1 cup 40% bran flakes, slightly crushed
- 3 tablespoons melted shortening

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, salt, and sugar and sift again. Combine egg and milk; add gradually to flour, beating only until smooth. Add flakes and shortening. Bake on hot greased griddle. Serve with maple-flavored syrup or honey. Makes about 12 cakes.

Instead of greasing the griddle, rub it with a little bag of salt before baking each batch of cakes. This keeps cakes from sticking and saves grease. For salt bag, tie 1/2 cup salt in cheesecloth.

GOOD BREAKFASTS NEEDED

Never before was an adequate "well-rounded" breakfast so important. It gives us that start we need for the day. Fruits, cereals, eggs, etc., are dependable standbys in a well-rounded breakfast—but adding variety to the usual way of serving any food adds interest to a meal. Here's a suggestion for stretching your eggs with an abundant food:

Scrambled Eggs with Toasties

Crush corn flakes and add to scrambled eggs just before removing from fire. Use 1/2 cup corn flakes to 3 eggs.

Potato Salad

- 1 quart new potatoes
- 1 tablespoon oil

- 2 tablespoons vinegar
- 1 onion
- 2 stalks celery
- 1 tablespoon caper
- 1 tablespoon chopped parsley
- Salt and pepper
- Thin mayonnaise or boiled dressing
- Cut beets
- Lettuce, lemon

Boil potatoes until done, but not too soft, slice them when cooled and add oil and vinegar. Chop onion and celery very fine, and add, with capers, parsley, and salt and pepper to taste. Pour a thin mayonnaise over all, mixing thoroughly with a wooden spoon and fork. Garnish with lettuce, a few pieces of lemon and cut beets.

MAKE USE OF YOUR LEMONS

Lemons will keep a long time when stored in a cool dark place or in a covered container in the refrigerator. However, don't store them there and forget them. Many foods may be forgotten without loss to the diet or menu. Not so the healthful lemon. Hardly a meal can be planned, where a lemon-flavored dish will not be a special treat or a lemon garnish enhance some one of the dishes served.

When you have bought a dozen lemons for a pie or for hot lemonade to give the member of the family who has a cold, don't put part of the dozen away and forget them. In wasting this fruit, you are losing more than the money spent for it; you are losing mineral and vitamin food elements that are valuable and difficult to secure from other sources. Lemons are among the foremost sources of important vitamin C, which the body does not store and which must be eaten in some form every day. Because the lemon tree is a hard worker and blooms and bears fruit the year around, it furnishes a fresh source of vitamin C always available.

So just bring out those extra lemons and put them to work. Give the recovered cold patient a glass of water with the juice of a lemon in it. This taken on rising every morning will do much to maintain future good health and prevent future colds. It also aids elimination and all the family can profit from the same morning bracer.

Cut one of these left-over lemons into quarters and send it to the table with the dinner vegetables or with the meat or fish. When the children ask for a dime to spend at the hokey-pokey stand, let them make lemonade for the gang and get more for their money.

Once you discover the many ways in which the lemon can serve you, there will be no forgotten lemons. In fact, lemons will become a staple item on your market order.

Here are a few lemon recipes that are different and that will make the lemon a remembered item on the family bill of fare.

Pacific Coast Fish Salad

- 1/2 cup lemon pulp and juice
- 2 cups shredded lettuce
- 1/2 cup finely chopped celery
- 2 cups flaked tuna or salmon
- 3 tablespoons minced pimiento

Combine. Serve with lemon mayonnaise. (Serves 6.)

Lemon pulp may replace chopped pickle in fish, egg and other salads for a pleasing flavor variation. Use 1/2 pulp to 1 cup shredded salad greens. To prepare pulp, peel lemons and with scissors cut in small pieces. Save juice and combine with pulp.

Spinach A La Sunkist

- 4 pounds spinach, cleaned thoroughly
- Place in kettle without any water

Add:
1/2 cup salad oil
1 tablespoon salt
Mix thoroughly. Cook 8 to 10 minutes. Stir or lift occasionally. Drain and chop.

Add:
1/2 cup lemon juice
Garnish with lemon. Other greens may be cooked by this same method. (Serves 8)

Dainty Lemon Layer Cake

- 1/2 cup butter or other shortening, creamed with
- 1 cup sugar

Add:
2 eggs, well-beaten
Sift together three times:
2 cups measured and sifted pastry flour

- 1/2 teaspoon baking soda
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- Add flour to first mixture, alternately with:

- 1/2 cup sweet milk, soured with
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice

Beat until smooth. Bake in 2 greased 8-inch layer cake pans in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) 25 to 30 minutes. Cool. Spread lemon cream filling between layers. Ice with seven minute lemon frosting. (Makes one 2-layer cake.)

Lemon Cream Filling

- 1 egg yolk, beaten
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 2 level tablespoons cornstarch
- 1/2 cup water
- 1/2 cup Sunkist lemon juice
- 1/2 teaspoon grated lemon peel

Cook in double boiler 15 minutes stirring often.

Add:

- 1/2 tablespoon butter
- Cool before spreading on cake.

Seven Minute Lemon Frosting

- 1 teaspoon white corn syrup
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1 egg white
- 3 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1/2 teaspoon grated lemon peel
- Dash of salt

Cook in double boiler 6 to 7 minutes, beating constantly with whirl type beater. Remove from heat. Beat thoroughly and spread on cake.

Beauty for YOU

The Secrets of Good Looks

by Barbara Lynn

Your Beauty In The Balance

It doesn't do any harm, once or twice a year, to give yourself a Beauty Stocktaking. Consider yourself from head to toe, so that you can weigh up your beauty shortcomings, as well as your more attractive points. Be frank with your self, for only so can you start to make the most of yourself.

Is your skin clear and smooth? Remember that inner cleanliness helps keep spots and pimples from your skin. Three-Purpose cream will help make your skin smooth and soft, too, so use it often.

Have you aging lines or wrinkles?

Don't throw up your hands in despair, but commence a daily routine of skin-massage with Three Purpose cream.

Are your hands coarse and reddish? Make it a rule always to wash yourself with gentle soothing palmolive soap. Now and again use some hand lotion. Spread a little on your elbows, too; it will help to keep them smooth and white.

Is your figure supple and youthful, or does it sag or bulge? Spend a few minutes daily on limbering and stretching exercises. If you don't know any, drop me a line and I'll give you some good ones.

Your hair - is it glossy and soft or is it faded and lifeless? A good hair tonic now and then will work wonders. Shampoo your hair frequently. Halo shampoo is simple to use and delightfully easy. It will quickly cleanse the hair of grease and dust and leave it lustrous and attractive. It suits any type of hair, by the way.

My booklet on Beauty Care will simplify your beauty problems. Send five one-cent stamps for a copy. Address: Miss Barbara Lynn, Box 75, Station B, Montreal, Que.

Khaki rayon stockings for "walking out" are being issued members of the Canadian Women's Army Corps, it has been announced at National Defence Headquarters.

Fourteen of the nineteen moving pictures acclaimed the best of 1943 have been made available for showing to troops of the Canadian Army. The five others are unavailable in sizes made by Army projectors.

Many Buildings Would Still Be STANDING TIMBER but for THE BEAVER LUMBER

War effort and export quotas have taken such a great percentage of Canada's normal lumber production, that, in order to make materials available for essential civilian work, it was necessary to produce more lumber.

So, to supplement the production of the established operators, and to provide lumber for farmers to store grain and raise livestock, Beaver Lumber financed new cutting and milling operations, and succeeded, to some extent, in providing lumber for the needs of the local community—a difficult task of which we are justly proud.

Our customers, appreciating the situation, have accepted the lumber we have made available—not always what they would want—and have "made it do," knowing it was the best to be had.

To enable us to serve you better, you are invited to bring your building problems to your nearest Beaver yard as early as possible. You are assured of receiving the best advice, assistance and materials available.

BEAVER (ALBERTA) LUMBER LIMITED

THE GREAT BRITAIN YOU TRULY ARE

• They have said she is isolated by the enveloping sea. But she has used it to join the hands of millions.

They have said she is fortified only by ships. They err. She is fortified by the strong hearts of her sons.

Proud in arms, with a mighty heart, Great Britain has withstood a thousand storms and will again. For hers is the strength of millions whose valour springs from a birthright of freedom.

Mother of parliaments, they call her... champion of justice and right.

We of her soil and of her blood and of her tutelage say this today: the world is in her debt for the part she has played in yesterday's eras of peace and progress. It will be so in the peace and progress to come.

We of Canada salute the Great Britain you truly are!

THE HOUSE OF SEAGRAM

We of The House of Seagram are proud of the part we are playing in supplying Great Britain with vital weapons of war. Every Seagram plant in Canada and the United States is engaged in the production of high-proof alcohol for smokeless powder, synthetic rubber and many other war-time products.

EDGERTON

The 132nd. Victory Wheel draw was won by A. E. Ripley with No. seven.

A free picture show under the auspices of the Farm for Victory Campaign was shown in the hall Monday. T. Townley Smith, District Agriculturist was the speaker. There was quite a fair attendance.

Miss Jones, primary room teacher, was on the sick list Monday so the kiddies had a holiday.

A meeting of the ratepayers of the Municipal District was held here Tuesday. The reeve, two councillors, and the Secretary-treasurer were in attendance to give an account of their stewardship for the past year. There was not a good attendance but the meeting was assured that the trunk roads into the Village of Edgerton would be completed this year if the council were able to get a contractor to do the work.

Mrs. Rae Golding left Wednesday for Toronto.

Jimmy Miles of the R.C.A.F. was home on short leave.

Eileen Pawsey and Ernestine Wallis spent a week in the city.

During the week visitors to the city from here included, Geoff Miles and Les. Darby, Mrs. Stratton and Mrs. Earl Hallett, Ron Pawsey, his wife and Mrs. H. R. Brown, Miss McRoberts and Miss Jones left Friday for the week end.

The film "North of the Klondike" was shown here Friday and Saturday.

Billy Hallett of the R.C.A.F. was home for a short leave.

Mrs. Jimmy Miles and Mrs. Fred Warrington on Saturday opened up the dining room at the Hotel for light refreshments. This is a long standing need and we hope their venture will be successful.

Two rinks of curlers went to Chauvin Saturday to challenge for the cup. They put up a good game but came just short of their goal. Edgerton rinks were: Skip Brown, R.C. Reed, G.G. Phillips and R. Kyle. Skip Ramsay, J.F. Gilmour, G. C. Welsh and A.E. Challenger.

A hockey team of soldiers from Wainwright came down Sunday and took quite a defeat from a team of Edgerton and Chauvinites. This game was followed with one between the juniors.

An Agricultural picture show was held at Heath school Wednesday evening under the direction of Mr. Townley-Smith.

WHITE CLOUD

We understand that Mr. and Mrs. H. Tondy had a party for the young people Tuesday last.

AUBURNDALE

The Autumn Leaf Local of the Alberta Farmers' Union held their regular monthly meeting on February 14th, with thirty members present. Two delegates had been sent to the A.F.U. convention which was held in Edmonton last month and their report took up most of the evening. Dissatisfaction was expressed by several members over the price received for their hogs, because, notwithstanding the three dollar bonus, they were actually getting less for their hogs than they got before the bonus was paid.

Three members reported that they had not yet received their wheat acreage reduction bonus, in spite of what has been said, over the radio about the bonuses being pretty well paid out.

There is still much of 1943's crop out in stooks in the fields, unthreshed, and what grain was threshed since the snow came is in danger of heating, some loss on this account having been reported.

The road crew who were graveling the highway from the Battle River towards Vermilion have pulled out, having finished this road, and we are able to get to Vermilion now for the first time on a good gravelled road. The road from the Battle River to Wainwright still remains ungravelled.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Fletcher of this district, who were married recently, were the guests of honor at a miscellaneous shower and dance held in the Autumn Leaf school-house by the people of the district and the young couple were presented with many beautiful and useful gifts for their new home in the Plaxtol district.

Music for the evening was supplied by Mr. C. Ford, Mr. Jack Veitch, who were assisted in turns by Mr. Henry Eyben and Mr. Roland Aurthur.

Mr. Charles Ford sang a solo, and Messrs. Veitch and Aurthur entertained with a duet.

Refreshments were served and the party closed with the singing of "For They Are Jolly Fellows", followed by "Auld Lang Syne" and "God Save the King."

Mrs. W. LaVerné and Henry spent last week in the city.

Mr. L. Wallace has been in the city recently.

A dance is being put on by the ladies club February 25th, every one welcome.

We are sorry indeed to hear that Mrs. W. Gaines has been in the hospital suffering from a bad chest cold.

$10,000,000 needed NOW!

This is the year of supreme effort, the year Red Cross will be needed as never before. And as our all-out victory drive gains momentum, as casualty lists mount, as the horrors of war spread wider and sink deeper, this need will grow.

We must see them through: the fighting men on every front, the gallant Merchant Navy, the wounded and maimed in British and Canadian hospitals, Prisoners of War, the homeless war orphans of Britain and the suffering millions of Europe.

Only the Red Cross meets this call for vital life saving food for Prisoners of War parcels, medicines, comforts, blood serum and nursing that spell survival for so many. There is no one else to do the job.

That is why we cannot fail: why we ask you to open your hearts and purses, giving to the limit of your ability. Remember, Victory will not be cheap; we need need lies ahead.

Harold Brunker was a week end visitor on leave from his post at Red Deer.
